12. CONCLUSION

Data Repository for Human Development Indicators was successfully built and hosted locally. All the functionalities provided to the three users namely data provider, system maintainer and data consumer are working properly without any glitches. The project can be deployed live and has the potential to be used on a global platform as a powerful tool for real time data analysis